

07/02/06

Well, Brandon. you're at the anime Expo and Emma, you are playing Sims - you did not go with your father this summer. It is a hot summer. Emma, we just had a negative moment. I never know what it is that sets you off. You were retrieving messages from your voice mail and you snapped when I tried to fix your shirt strap I don't know why you became angry, but you slapped my hand. At first I thought you were kidding, but you slapped it again and snapped at me - it was pretty hard. I slapped your hand back. I was surprised, I don't know why, at how angry you became over something so simple. Then again this is how you sometimes get. You were more upset about listening to your friends message. You don't know how hard it is to be me.

Love Mom.